PROBE POISONING OF OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY CO-EDS; NINE SICK

State Chemists Advise Fudge Served At Party To Determine Cause Of Strange Illness—All

Columbus, Nov. 13.—The ptomaine poisoning theory was precluded by the fact that the girls ate dinner in different sections of the city before attending the McDermott party, where only the fudge was served.

Among the girls made ill were Miss Esther Pinky, Bellaire, O.; Miss McDermott and her sister, Alice; Blanche I. Harris, Ravenna; Rhea Pettit, Logan and Mrs. Baldwin Dickinson, Columbus. Names of the others stricken have not been made public.

Nearly all of the young women had recovered sufficiently today to return to their classes. All of them were quoted as saying that they had eaten nothing excepting the fudge and no liquids of any kind were served, they said.

DAYTON COURT MAY RE-OPEN ON CLASSIFICATION

Action Would Be ing of Intangible
erty For Tax

Columbus, Nov. 13.—The reopening of the fight to re-open the Dayton court on classification of intangible property, appeared imminent as the result of a suit filed in Montgomery County to compel the county to pay taxes on intangible property.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Steven Kender, Dayton, who demands an accounting of the county treasurer, together with twenty building and loan associations were named defendants.

The Kenders contend that intangible property on deposit with the associations is escaping taxation, "to the detriment of owners of real estate." The Kenders own real estate valued at $75,000.

State officials today pointed out that the alleged situation existing in Montgomery county, exists throughout the state.

Should the Kenders be successful in their litigation, the officials declared the decision would have a sweeping effect and would involve more than $350,000,000 on deposit in the 865 Ohio building and loan associations. J. V. Tamm, chief of the state division of building and loan associations and a staunch advocate of classification, said he did not believe anything would be accomplished by the suit. He declared the loan associations were only custodians for their clients intangible property.

FIVE SUSPECTS HELD IN PROBE OF MURDER

Akron, O., Nov. 13.—Five suspects are being held by police in connection with the murder of E. R. J. Bignell, early Thursday morning. They were grilled by police nearly all night.

Three men gave their names as John Recco, 34; Nick Gufet, 24, and Christ Gufet, 16. Police withheld the names of the others.

Bignell was slain in the business section of Akron and carried to the lonely spot about a half mile from the city and dropped from the machine, police believe.

The victims throat was cut, and the body stabbed 38 times with a still. Bignell's own pocket knife was left sticking in his heart when the murderers left the body at the roadside.

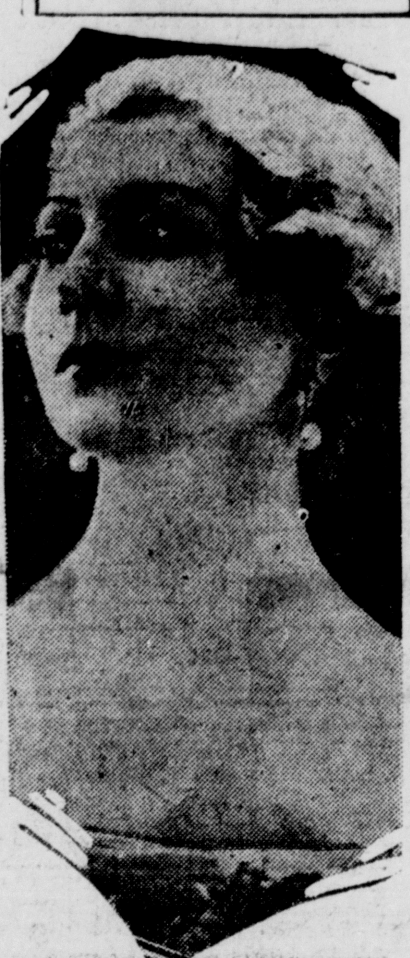

Bignell was said by police to have operated a still and sold liquor in partnership with two other men.

The suspects denied knowledge of the crime but discrepancies in their stories implicate them, according to detectives.

YOUTH WAS KILLED

Caldwell, O., Nov. 13.—Roland Brown, 14, was killed here today when a catapillar tractor he was driving, fell through a wooden platform, burying him beneath the wreckage. The youth, son of F. G. Brown, a contractor was driving the tractor into his father's barn.

J. C. PENNEY COMPANY LEASES ROOMS HERE TO LOCATE BRANCH

Five and Ten Cent Stores
Also Want To Locate
Here

Lease by the J. C. Penney Company, Inc., nationally known chain department store operators of store space in the Schmidt Block, East Main Street, was announced by H. E. Schmidt, owner of the buildings, Friday.

The Penney Company has leased the business rooms occupied by the City Market and the L. S. Hyman Clothing Store for a period of twenty years.

The rooms will be remodeled and thrown into one store, Mr. Schmidt said. Remodeling work is to start the first of the year under direction of H. W. Owens, architect and the Penney Company is planning to take possession the first of next March. The company acquires the ground floor and basement rooms in adjoining buildings.

The Penney Company operates 676 stores over the country, with branch stores in every state in the Union. About twenty-five of the company's stores are scattered over Ohio.

The company handles dry goods, ready-to-wear general clothing, shoes and other department store stock.

New locations of the City Market and the Hyman store have not been decided on. Both stores have occupied space in the Schmidt Block several years.

Efforts of representatives of the Kresge Five and Ten Cent Stores, to lease property owned by Mr. Schmidt on East Main Street have failed so far. The Kresge Company seeks a ninety-nine year lease of the business rooms occupied by the McDermott-Pumphrey Company and the S. and S. Shoe Store.

The Morris Five and Ten Cent Stores are also making an effort to lease East Main Street property of Mr. Schmidt for the location of a branch store here.

FEDERAL AND STATE DEPARTMENTS PROBE TRAIN WRECK; 10 DIE

Committee Says Express
Failed To Heed Its Signals

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 13.—Federal and state investigations into yesterday's wreck near Monmouth Junction when the Pennsylvania Railroad's Mercantile express from St. Louis crashed into the rear of the overnight express from Washington, got underway today.

The death list reached ten when the last body, that of an unidentified man clad in pajamas, was taken from the twist of steel last night.

Five of the dead had been reached at mid-afternoon yesterday. Arthur Cross of Schenectady, who had retained consciousness while rescuers worked in the wreckage, died late in the day and the four other bodies were found as the evening wore on.

Two of the dead are as yet unidentified in a New Brunswick morgue. Six persons are in hospitals with severe injuries.

A statement given out at the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad read: "The Pennsylvania Railroad committee, in charge of the inquiry, reached the conclusion that the engineer of train No. 6 the Mercantile Express) did not observe the signals, which were 'properly set and in working order.'"

The engineer, Timothy J. Carroll, who had been at the throttle for 25 years without a mishap has been suspended.

The collision occurred on a ten mile level stretch of track. Pennsylvania trains are accustomed to make up lost time along this stretch, it was said and engineer Carroll is believed to have opened wide his throttle regardless of the blinding fog.

In the last car of the forward train 19 persons, all men, were asleep. The plowing engine telescoped the Pullman and wedged it into the one ahead.

All of the dead and severely injured were in that car. Wrecking crews hesitated to pull the cars apart lest some within the jammed sleeper might be killed.

A 14-foot hole was burned with torches through the steel side of the car and through this the rescue was made.

PROSECUTION TO ANSWER MRS LANSLOWNE CHARGES

Foley Will Be Called To Testify In Mitchell Case As To Charges Made by Widow of Shenandoah Officer.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Prosecution leaders in the Mitchell court-martial today took up the question of answering the charges of Mrs. Lansdowne, widow of the Shenandoah Commander, who accused Captain Paul Foley, judge advocate of the naval court investigating the dirigible disaster with attempting to influence her testimony.

Colonel Sherman Moreland, the prosecutor for the jury of generals trying the Texas air colonel on charges of insubordination, said he would decide later whether to call Foley and Mrs. George W. Steele, wife of the Lakehurst, N. J., air station commander, who Mrs. Lansdowne said, delivered a memorandum from Foley. The memorandum suggested Mrs. Lansdowne testify her husband was willing to take his ship, the Shenandoah, anywhere, anytime, under any weather conditions.

Foley told the United Press today he had asked to appear before the Mitchell Court, and that the war department counsel had assured him he would be summoned as soon as Mitchell finishes presenting his testimony.

There was no evidence that Foley will deny that he wrote the memorandum which Mrs. Steele gave Mrs. Lansdowne. He refused today to be quoted in comment on Mrs. Lansdowne's testimony.

He refused to say whether he was author of the memorandum which the pretty young widow of Lansdowne said she tore up and disregarded. Foley will attempt to reply before the court-martial, he indicated.

Mrs. Lansdowne's testimony was a bomb shell in the navy department, where officials today refused to comment in anyway on expected developments or a possible counter offensive.

When court opened today a motion to strike out the testimony of Mrs. Lansdowne was made by Col. Sherman Moreland, trial judge advocate.

Two attempts to expunge the sensational testimony of the widow of the Shenandoah's commander failed, however, when the court of generals overruled the motion after spirited argument between opposing counsel and a ten minute secret session of the court.

Mrs. Snow is the first woman to seek the nomination. She declared she believed her nomination would clear the atmosphere in the Republican party.

Her platform is economy, efficiency and a square deal to all. She said that, if elected, she would give Ohio a "clean, sound, conservative and constructive administration."

Clarence M. Werum, Columbus attorney, will manage her campaign.

FERVID LETTERS OF ALICE JONES TO KIP RHINELANDER READ

Prayed for "Love Dove" Revealed In Court In Divorce Suit.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 13.—More of the fervid letters written by Alice Jones to her "love dove," Leonard Kip Rhinelander, are to be read today in supreme court as the young aristocrat once more goes upon the witness stand in his suit for annulment of his marriage on the grounds that his bride deceived him as to her colored blood.

The missives thus far introduced have analyzed minutely the course of the alliance between Leonard and Alice, uncultured daughter of a taxicab driver.

The letters have unfolded what seems a warm attachment and devotion. Alice prayed for Leonard, she said and wanted him not to be so extravagant, to study hard and take care of his health.

Lee Parsons Davis, attorney for the defense repeatedly has protested against introduction of the letters. When his objections were overruled he warned Isaac N. Mills, Rhinelander's counsel that the letters written by Leonard would be read upon cross-examination.

CHURCH ROBBED

Delaware, O., Nov. 13.—Stamps, bonds and checks, totaling $9,300 were stolen last night from the offices of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church here by thief who gained entrance by using a skeleton key, police said today.

KILLED BY TRUCK

Potter was killed last night in a blinding rain storm, when he stepped into the path of the truck.

TWO INJURED

Toulon, Nov. 13.—A gas explosion today aboard the French submarine Noreide started a fire and injured two of the crew.

SLAYING OF KELLER CHILD SECOND MURDER IN FAMILY

Sandusky, O., Nov. 13.—The slaying of Fay Elizabeth Keller, 7, killed by her mother, according to the latter's confession, in a shack on the Fringe of the Big Island Swamp, east of here, Nov. 2, to "protect her from a life of poverty," was the second murder in the family within a quarter of a century, according to the accused woman, Mrs. Mary Keller, 47.

Twenty three years ago, William Betke, father of Mrs. Keller, was found murdered in his home at Elmore, O., mysterious circumstances surrounded the killing and no one ever was convicted of the crime.

Betke, Mrs. Keller says, owned valuable oil lands, but lived the life of a miser, refusing to spend or to entrust to banks the large royalties, derived from the oil wells.

When Mrs. Keller, then Mary Betke, was 16 she and two sisters were evicted from their home by the father. The fourth daughter, an epileptic, was unable to leave home.

From that time on, Mrs. Keller never returned to her home or made inquiries about her family. The death of her father was brought to her through a friend, and the fate of the other members of her family is unknown to her.

Mrs. Keller, alone in the women's section of the Erie County Jail, stoically awaits action of the court. She has no regrets. She still believes her daughter better off than if she had lived.

'Marry Again? Not On Your Life!' States Mrs. W. W. Culp When Granted Divorce

Wife Of Erring Ex-pastor
Obtains Release From Gay Lothario

Mrs. Wilson W. Culp, wife of the former Spring Valley minister and four times deserted by her pulpitless husband, gave him his freedom at South Bend, Ind., Thursday. She divorced him on the grounds of desertion, cruelty and non-support of their ten children, of which the youngest is two and the oldest eighteen.

Mrs. Culp was granted the divorce by Superior Judge Lenn J. Oare, who refused to allow alimony and ordered that she must not remarry for two years. The decree was entirely satisfactory to the wife of the unfrocked minister as she says matrimony has become distasteful.

"Marry again? Not on your life." This was how she expressed her feelings. On the witness stand she was asked by Judge Oare if she would be willing to again wed her erring husband should he return from his latest spree with his sister-in-law. "I should say not," Mrs. Culp shouted and her words contained all the sarcasm and bitterness resulting from years of marital strife and disappointments in which she has been subjected to abject suffering, humiliation and extreme poverty.

Mrs. Culp repeated in court how twenty years ago when she was young and pretty she had been a happy bride in a country church parsonage near Nappanee, Ind. Now age has taken its toll. All the youthfulness is gone, the result of years of married life and mothering of ten children.

London, Nov. 13.—The feared today the four and sixty-four men of the ing submarine M-1, have in twenty-seven fathoms (feet) of water, beyond the of Wight.

Navy men pictured the sea boat as lying there with broken in the dive but their through the night and forenoon failed to reveal any trace of the destroyers cruising around where the M-1 was last seen, no tell-tale oil patches. Mine sweepers and warships have joined the divers have been called to tend into the depths but heavy weather sweeping to the Devon coast making diving perilous.

It was pointed out that under mal conditions the M-1 holds sufficient air to supply her crew for four days. Huge steel nets were used to sweep the depths as heavy seas made work of hunting extremely difficult. These nets were attached to surface craft which plowed slowly like fishing boats taking up a catch.

The M-1 was seen to dive yesterday beyond the Isle of Wight where she and some sister craft were going through exercises as the weather kept them from going out to open sea.

The M-1 built during the war was of the type boats favored by Admiral Fisher. She was in reality a monitor heavily armored and able to submerge. American naval men declare that this particular type has never proved very successful.

DAVEY FAVORS BILL FOR RE-ORGANIZATION

Columbus, Nov. 13.—Martin L. Davey, Democratic congressman from Kent, announced here today that he would support the proposed bill to give the President unlimited power for two years to re-organize the executive department of the federal government.

With this unlimited power, greater than ever enjoyed by a war time President, a re-organization can be effected which would reduce government expenditures by $500,000,000 a year, Davey believes.

Under such a plan more than 100,000 unnecessary jobs could be eliminated.

HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON
If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's winous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which every-one should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will won-derfully or any good druggist will be glad to supply you. Adv.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi'll Give You $50 If You Name Her Doll By JAY V.

It's a very smart glove that covers the hand Mitzi puts out to take up her doll. Nameless still! Mitzi is offering a prize of $50 for the name she will choose for her doll. Have you sent her your suggestions? After all Christmas is coming and $50 is $50.

Mitzi takes the doll shopping with her. Not that the doll's comments on this evening gown will be nearly so illuminating as, say, the Goofer's or even Dad's. It's a dress made completely of gold lace and every well dressed woman will want one of the same material this season.

After settling that matter to her satisfaction, Mitzi goes out of the shop looking for more worlds to conquer—a comparatively simple matter, one would think, for a handsome young woman dressed in an ensemble suit trimmed with fitch fur and worn with a velvet hat especially made to match it.

She's still an orphan doll without a name. The only reason she doesn't show her feelings in the matter is that she can't. She goes through life with a wondering expression on her face because that's the way she was made. Do send her a name! Send it to Modish Mitzi, in care of this paper.

THOSE TWO-DOLLAR BILLS will increase you

Bad luck I fear and always will,
Some evil things I dread, and yet
Oh, lovely green two-dollar bill,
I'll take you in without regret;
To you my palm is never shut,
I smile your pretty face to see, lally good. Perhaps Bride Readers would like the recipe: Pare the quinces, cut them in quarters or eighths, and core. Cover with cold water and cook slowly till almost tender. If too tender they will become mushy and lose their shape. Now weigh the pieces and for each pound of this cooked fruit allow three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar. Mix this amount of sugar with the water in which the quinces were boiled, bring again to the boiling point, and add the cooked quince—sections to this syrup. Continue to simmer until the fruit turns very tender. Place in sterilized glass jars and seal airtight at once (adding the syrup to the pieces in the jar). Farmer's Wife.

STORY TELLING IS BOOK WEEK FEATURE

As another feature of Children's Book Week, being observed by the Greene County Library, a story telling hour has been arranged for the young people of the city Saturday.

New Philadelphia, Ohio, Nov. 13.—Weston H. Dimick, 69, believed to be Ohio's oldest messenger "boy" has resigned his position with the local Western Union office and is looking for another job.

Dimick, who was a telegrapher in his younger days, retired on pension. He formerly was agent for this district of the east Ohio Gas Co. He had been employed by the gas company for 32 years.

SCHOOL PUPILS ARE GROWING RICHER

Xenia City school pupils are getting richer every week.

Most of the children's pennies each week is adding up into quite an amount. Last week's banking totaled $111.33 and this week, $103.06, according to H. C. Pendry, city superintendent.

The school banking system was begun last year and the boys and girls have heartily co-operated with the saving plan.

CLOUDS ONLY BAD LUCK FRIDAY

The favorite day of the superstitious arrived Friday. Those who enjoy the workings of an unkind fate watched with anticipation the results of Friday the thirteenth.

Followers of the age-old superstition went around with their fingers crossed to ward off the effects of the fateful day and didn't take any chances in courting Old Bad Luck.

With the exception of gloomy weather, the day was marked with no special bad features. But even the clouds had a menacing look and seemed to threaten that if nothing else happened to spoil the day they could make the remaining hours as unpleasant as possible.

Central High football squad went to Greenfield hoping that the coincidence of the day and date would spell bad luck to its opponent, McClain High School.

ANGEL OF MERCY

(This poem was written and published at the request of the Red Cross Roll Call officials.)

They took love—and gave it hands
They took pity—and gave it feet
They took the skill that understands
How direst things in life to meet
They took a mother's soothing touch
That bends above a couch of pain
And counts no sacrifice too much
To make the broken whole again
They took the heart's divine desire
To ease the bitter sting of loss
And lift the soul of mankind higher
And this great thing they call—Red Cross.

Wherever dire disasters befall,
Always first to answer the call
Ready to lend the helping hand
To the needy of any race or land,
Skilled in every blessed art
That heals the body and cheers the heart
Seeking ever to sooth life's pain
Asking naught in the way of gain
An angel of mercy, hovering low
Wherever destruction and sorrow go
A refuge in danger—a succor in loss
The great World Mother—the Red Cross.

—Miss Nellie McKay.

Mother! Don't "Physic" a Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purgative" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large, good bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.—Adv.

"I Wanted a Radio"

But I Did Not Know
How To Choose The Best One.

"There are so many kinds — so many claims—I felt so confused! Then I learned that there is one make of radio which thousands and thousands of people recommended to their friends, and that the company making it had grown to be the largest of its kind in the world.

"Well," I said to myself, "If I follow the judgment of the public, I am sure to choose wisely."

"So I bought a Freed-Eisemann and now, after hearing mine, my friends are buying Freed-Eisemanns too."

This month we will install a set in your home for a liberal trial—without cost or obligation. Let us hear from you.

XENIA GIRL REMAINS CALM WHILE BOLD BANDIT ROBS MUSIC TEACHER

Miss Theda Downing, 245 West Second Street, Xenia, was taking a music lesson when an unmasked armed robber held up and robbed her music instructor, Henry A. Ditzel, J. C. Hartley, merchant tailor and R. J. Menker, telephone repairman, in Ditzel's music studio on the second floor of the Bimm Building, Dayton, Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The robber obtained $60 and a gold watch from Ditzel, $7 from Hartley and nothing from Menker. The bandit refrained from molesting the Xenia girl who was seated at the piano taking her regular lesson.

Miss Downing remained composed during the holdup. Ditzel's request that she not be harmed was complied with by the bandit. She did not become hysterical but on the contrary when the robber had gone, humorously remarked that it was "Friday the 13th."

EGG PRICES HERE LOWER THAN PEAK

Although Xenia housewives are deploring the high cost of eggs, the local prices have not reached the peak announced in other cities.

Prices quoted by Xenia dealers range from 40 to 45 cents, while Springfield eggs are quoted at 62 cents a dozen. Egg prices in Springfield seem to be steadily rising, while Xenia prices have not fluctuated for several days and the recent decline has been much more gradual.

The high prices are said to be the result of a strike on the part of Mrs. Hen, who since the coming of cold weather has laid down on the egg-laying job. Winter weather also marks an increase in the demand for eggs.

OSBORN

The Parent-Teacher Association held their Armistice Day meeting Tuesday evening at the schoolhouse. Judge Routzong of Dayton gave the address. "Our Flag" was the subject of it and it was very well received by the large crowd that was present.

Towards the close of the meeting it was resolved upon by the Association that they would send a paper to the prosecuting attorney at Xenia in which it would be stated that they wanted justice given to the people in Osborn who have been arrested recently by Constable Sidney Cornelius and if they were found innocent that every stain be cleared from their names because of the disgraceful proceedings.

Galen Starr Ross is conducting a ten-day course of physical culture at the Bath Township schoolhouse for the high school students. He has two classes, one a boys' and the other a girls' class. At the end of that time he will hold a meeting at the schoolhouse on Saturday, Nov. 21, for the benefit of the parents, friends and students at which he will give a report of the success of the course.

Mrs. Robert Haerr and daughter, Charline, were Springfield shoppers one day this week.

Mr. W. A. Schneider transacted business in Xenia on Wednesday.

Mrs. O. R. Pinell and sons, Joseph and Emory have returned to their home at Indianapolis, Ind., after spending the past week with Mrs. Pinell's sister, Mrs. Robert Haerr of Xenia Drive, and her husband, Mr. O. R. Pinell, who is employed at the Southwestern Portland Cement Plant. Miss Leota Frahn is visiting in Dayton this week.

Superintendent and Mrs. Zuber and Miss Gelsner will attend the Oberlin and Miami game at Oxford on Saturday.

Miss Vera Schneider is convalescent after a very severe illness of five weeks.

Mrs. Waldo Zellars spent the day in Dayton.

Mr. Carl Leonardt, president of the Southwestern Portland Cement Plant, has returned to Osborn after spending the past several months in Germany on business. He is staying at the company clubhouse just outside of Osborn.

Mr. John Hower transacted business in Dayton on Tuesday.

RINCE YOUSOUPOFF SEEKING TO REGAIN OLD CASTLE IN BRITTANY

Paris, Nov. 1.—Prince Felix Youssouppoff, Russian nobleman, amateur dealer, and the man who dared draw a gun on Rasputin, has taken other bold plunge in litigation to replenish the family fortune. This time he wants to obtain possession of eriolet Castle, in Brittany, which was left to the department of Finistere by his grandmother, Princess Zeneide Narischkine, for a museum.

The prince is a man of courage, and his veins is the blood of the old Russian ruling class that took what it wanted. This blood can no longer land, so Prince Youssouppoff recently turns to courts of law, as seen in his dispute with Joseph Idener, financier and art collector in Philadelphia, over two Rembrandts. He lost his case and filed an appeal, as pending in Paris a libel action against an English language newspaper for publication of an alleged rumor he had with a local collector snuff-boxes.

Behind the latest legal step of the prince is an involved story that reaches the old days of Russian nobility. Princess Narischkine was connected with the house of Romanoff. After death of her husband, Prince Youssouppoff, grandfather of the present prince, she was married to Count Chauveueu, whom she met at the Russian Embassy in St. Petersburg. The marriage proved unhappy and she resided in France the Princess married to Russia, leaving Keriolet Castle to a woman who was supposed to have been the chief cause of her unfortunate married life.

After her life the Princess returned to Brittany and bought back the castle. She lived there until her death. She bequeathed the castle to the Department of Finistere on condition that it be preserved exactly in the state in which she left it. Prince Felix now argues that changes have been made in the castle, that some of its finest parts have been removed, and that terms of the contract have been violated. As his grandmother's heir claims the castle and the property.

OPESTERS FIGURE OHIO WESLEYAN IS BEST IN COUNTRY

Delaware, Nov. 13.—Ohio Wesleyan's football team is 12 points better than Michigan, 15 points better than Illinois, 27 better than Pennsylvania, better than Yale, 60 better than the Army, 88 better than Notre Dame and 90 points better than Minnesota, only defeated eleven in the Big Ten, on comparative scores figured out by us here following the Battling Bishops 3 to 5 tie with Syracuse.

"Forget that dope! You have to beat Denison and St. Xavier yet before you are even champions of the Ohio Conference," said Coach George Gauthier here this week when he found some of his men busy with the comparative scores.

The best dope sheet prepared here yet however is the one arriving at the above scores which rivals the one of recent years in which Oberlin was found to be gridiron champion of the world, Syracuse which Wesleyan tied at Indiana 14-0, Indiana tied 17-14 Northwestern which defeated Michigan 3-2, Michigan defeated Illinois 3-0, and Illinois walloped Pennsylvania 12-0. Penn had a 16-13 win over Yale which defeated Army 28-7. Army defeated Notre Dame 27-0, Notre Dame defeated Minnesota 18-7. By adding and subtracting according to wins and losses in the above scores the margin of superiority is figured.

By the same system Ohio Wesleyan could have the following margin on the following teams: Wisconsin 100, Iowa 106, Ohio State 121, Wooster 138, Mt. Union 140, Reserve 148, Kenyon 155, Transylvania 151, Miami 135.

Meanwhile Coach Gauthier and Ohio Wesleyan fans and players are wondering if they can beat the scrappy Big Red team at Denison Saturday and are making strenuous preparations for the contest.

Finch said Fudge turned to the left and he was unable to avoid the accident. Fudge failed to observe traffic regulations he charged.

SYNOPSIS
Connemara Moore and David Lacy, strangers, until tonight, are racing across Long Island in David's car. On the ferry, crossing from Connecticut, a stranger, announcing himself as "Pooch," had joined them. Pooch, now in the back seat, has just leaned over and handed the mystified girl a big roll of bills. Back in Aunt Celi-mena's Connecticut home is a worried company. Connie was to have announced her engagement tonight—to Bing Carrington or Salt Adams—but, instead, she has disappeared.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

And what a situation! Midnight or thereabouts. Somewhere between Manhasset Bay and Hempstead Harbor, Connemara Moore in a broken-down—not to say up—car in the company of two strangers, obviously of nefarious calling, bent on criminal endeavor. For there could be no doubt about it; Mr. Pooch, of course,—with his fifty thousand dollars which Connemara could hear crackling in one of the more intimate recesses of her costume—but also Mr. Whatever-his-name-was. A nice young man too. A little slow on the uptake, perhaps, although he had picked her up fast enough, Connemara was forced to admit. Yes, a nice young man—a little less than Salt and more than Bing, which was probably just about the right combination—but a crook, a crook, Connemara reminded herself. A fifty-thousand-dollar crook!

"I wish he hadn't been a crook. I really do," Connemara remarked sadly to herself. She certainly had no intention of associating herself

Soon a darker shadow proclaimed a boat at anchor in the deeper water, with any bright young stranger who appeared to be headed for Atlanta or some other federal resort, unless he were dead back there in the road, which seemed not unlikely.

Where was everybody, anyway? Connemara's wheel came to a stop—it could only have been a few seconds since the crash—and Connemara found herself staring at the two individuals from the Pierce who had now advanced much closer.

"What goes on, Ku Klux?" one of them inquired.

A flashlight blinked in her face, blinding her, and at the same moment there was the crack of a revolver over her shoulder. Connemara felt a hand on her arm, found herself jerked backward onto the road, heard the inimitable accents of Mr. Pooch in her ear, "You come with me, kid—over the speckled sands!"

"But Mr.—Mr.—your friend!" Connemara protested, and wondered why.

"To hell with him!" Mr. Pooch announced, dragging her after him into the shadows. "He'll have to look out for himself with them highjackers. Guess perhaps he's croaked, anyway!"

Yes, perhaps so. Anyway, there was nothing to be done now but follow Mr. Pooch, much as a tender follows its engine. As for the nice young man—let him go, the fifty-thousand dollar crook.

Which was exactly what David Lacy was saying to himself from his place of precarious concealment in the ditch in which he was picking odds and ends out of his hair. She was a nice girl—more than that, mysterious, charming, alluring; David Lacy allowed himself the world, intriguing.

But she was a crook—no question about it, a friend of that poisonous Pooch, who had recognized her and given her money. Too much money.

It was all too bad—too damn bad—but let her go, the fifty-thousand-dollar crook.

"Good riddance," David Lacy decided under his breath. "You—You Whited Sepulcher."

In spite of which he found himself wriggling along the ditch, in the direction taken by Mr. Pooch and that smooth-tongued young deceiver.

For perhaps the first time in her vivid young life, things were happening almost too fast for Connemara. She was able, usually, to pluck at least the tail feathers, as it were, from any passing event, but on this occasion the needle of Connemara's mental recording apparatus was seismic in its evolutions upon the chart of her perceptions. She was being dragged along madly through the dark by the snorting Mr. Pooch. Behind her on the road a commotion of voices and revolver shots bespoke an increasing tumult, in the midst of which the gentleman in the overtured sedan could still be heard, plaintively abusive.

"What you firing at me for?" he kept inquiring. "What do you think I am, a shooting gallery?"

Aside from that, Connemara found herself just a breath or two behind the pageant of human events rocketing past her—in fact, she found herself entirely out of breath, in her enforced attempt to keep pace with the fugitive Pooch, whose grasp upon her arm had not for a moment, needless to say, relaxed. Mr. Pooch was steaming across open fields, hurling himself through hedges, floundering over ditches, decanting himself on the further side of only too frequently recurring fences, and wherever Mr. Pooch went, Connemara was obliged to follow, a reluctant, gasping, willy-nilly tail to his comet, much encumbered by her nun's attire.

At last there was a sandy slope, the sudden level of a deserted beach, a glimmer of water at sight of which Mr. Pooch went into reverse. Connemara sat down at once.

"Wh-wh-wh—?" she remarked, and Mr. Pooch laughed.

"All in, ain't you, kid?" he grinned at her. "Pretty light on my feet for a heavy guy, I am. No time to lose back there; had to make our get-away."

"You n-needn't have b-bothered about me," Connemara assured him, and Mr. Pooch roared with mirth.

"Zat so?" he chuckled. "Say, kid, you're a hot one. Think I'd leave you behind with all that dough for them highjackers to get their hooks on? Now everything's going to be fine—you just stick with me and you'll wear diamonds!"

With this dazzling prospect in view, Connemara arose to her protesting feet, for the good and simple reason that Mr. Pooch had begun to move forward again—his hand, if anything, firmer upon her arm—prospecting along the beach. A few hundred yards away they came to a dinghy, a black dinghy with a white bottom, fast in the sand. Mr. Pooch shoved the boat clear with one hand and turned to Connemara.

"In you get," he commanded, "and sit in the stern—that's the square end—where I can see you, my goil!"

Connemara sat in the stern, and Mr. Pooch climbed in after her and possessed himself of the oars.

"Now we'll look for this baby's mother," he remarked and began to row, sloppily but not without results, for soon a darker shadow proclaimed a boat at anchor in the deeper water—a small power yacht, black with a white bottom showing, when she rose on her line.

"Ain't no one aboard," Mr. Pooch observed, and let the dinghy bump. But Mr. Pooch was wrong. There was someone aboard, the who manifested himself from the tenebrous cockpit in the form of a genial voice heavily freighted with Scotch—both linguistically and liquidly speaking.

"Hooray!" said a voice, somewhat unexpectedly.

"Hooray yourself," Mr. Pooch replied. "What time is it?"

"Nine bells," the voice assured him. "Nine bells, daylight-savin' time. Come right aboard and have 'smore coffee.'"

"We'll do that little thing," Mr. Pooch chuckled, and helped Connemara up the side, much as a policeman helps a prisoner into the van.

The voice in the cockpit revealed itself as a little man in a white-visored cap, grinning delightedly from ear to ear. He was, it was evident, fried, blotted, ossified, in short drunk, as only a Scotchman can be.
